The King makes, and audibly repeats and subscribes the same upon the top of his Faldstool, a Silver Standish being brought out of the Traverse for that Purpose.

Then the Archbishop administers the Coronation Oath, first asking

Then the Dean of Westminster layeth the Ampulla and Spoon upon the Altar, and the King kneeleth down at the Faldstool, and the Archbishop standing on the North-side of the Altar, saith this Prayer or Blessing over Him:

This Prayer being ended, the King arises, and sits down again in his Chair, and the Dean of Westminster wipes and dries all the Places anointed, with fine Linen, or fine Bombast Wooll, delivered to him by the Lord Great Chamberlain.

Then a short Anthem is sung :

THE Spurs are brought from the Altar by the Dean of Westminster, and delivered to a Nobleman thereto appointed by the King, who, kneeling down, presents them to Him, and forthwith sends them back

The King standing up, the Sword is girt about Him by the Lord

Great Chamberlain, or some other Peer thereto by Him appointed; and then the King sitting down, the Archbishop saith;

Amen.

Then the King rifing up, ungirds his Sword, and going to the Altar, offers it there in the Scabbard, and then returns and fits down in His Chair: And the Earl of Huntington offereth the Price of it, namely, a hundred Shillings, and having thus redeemed it, receiveth it from off the Altar by the Dean of Westminster, and draweth it out of the Scab. bard, and carries it naked before His Majesty during the rest of the So-

And when You see this Orb set under the Cross, remember that the whole World is subject to the Power and Empire of Christ our Lord. For all Power is given unto Him in Heaven and in Earth; He ruleth in the Kingdoms of Men, and giveth them to whomsoever He pleaseth. He is the blessed and only Potentate, the Prince of the Kings of the Earth: On whose Vesture, and on his Thigh a Name is written, King of Kings, and Lord of Lords: So that no Man can reign happily upon Earth, who derives not his Authority from Him, and directs not all His Administrations and Actions, according to His Laws.

The Investiture per Annulum & Baculum.

THEN the Master of the Jewel-House delivers the King's Ring to the Archbishop, in which a Table Jewel is enchased; the Archbishop puts it on the Fourth Finger of His Majesty's Right-hand, and saith;

Then the King sitting down in King Edward's Chair, the Archbishop, assisted with other Bishops, comes from the Altar; the Dean of Westminster brings the Crown, and the Archbishop taking it of him, reverently putteth it upon the King's Head. At the sight whereof the People, with loud and repeated Shouts, cry, God save the King, and the Trumpers sound, and by a Signal given, the Great Guns at the Tower are shot off.

The Noise ceasing, the Archbishop goeth on, and saith,

The Recess.

THE whole Coronation Office being thus performed, the King attended and accompanied as before, the four Swords being carried before Him, descends from his Throne Crowned, and carrying His Scoptre and Rod in His Hands, goes into the Area Eastward of the Theatre, and passes on through the Door on the South-side of the Altar into King Edward's Chappel; and as they pass by the Altar, the rest of the Regalia, lying upon it, are to be delivered by the Dean of Westminster to the Lords that carried them in the Procession, and so they proceed in State into the Chappel, the Organs all the while playing. The Queen at the same time descending, goes in like manner into the same Chappel at the Door on the North-side of the Altar; bearing her Sceptre in Her Righe Hand, and her Ivory Rod in Her Lest.

The King and Queen being come into the Chappel, and standing before the Alear, take off their Crowns, and deliver them, together with their Sceptres, to the Arch-bishen, who layeth them upon the Altar there. And the rest of the Regalia are given into the Hands of the Dean of Westminster, and by him laid there also.

Then the King withdraweth Himself into His Traverse prepared for Him upon the Western Wall of that Chappel, the Queen in the mean while doing Her Devotions at Her Faldstool, or reposing Her Self in Her Chair.

Within this Traverso the King is distrobed by the Lord Great Chamberlain, of His Royal Robe of State, (which is forthwith delivered to the Dean of Westminster; to be laid also upon the Altar) and again arrayed with His Robe of Pumple Velves form d with Ermins, which he is to wear that Day, and was before laid ready in the Traverse for that Purpose.

When the King thus habited cometh forth of his Traverse, the Queen ariseth, and they Both stand before the Alear, and the Arch-bishop being still vested in his Cope, setteth the Crowns of State, provided for the King and Queen to wear, during the rest of the Solemnity, upon their Heads. Then he giveth the Saepere with the Cross into the King's Right Hand, and the Orb with the Cross into his Left. As also the Seepher Left. Which being done, both the Arch-bishop and Bishops divest themselves of their Copes, and leave them there, proceeding in their usual Habits.

Then the King carrying his Sceptre with the Cross in His Right Hand, and the Orb with the Cross in His Left; The Queen also with her Sceptre in Her Right Hand, and the Ivory Rod in Her Left, the four Swords being born the King, and the Herald having again put the Procession in Order, go on from King Edward's Chappel to the Theatre, and thence through the midst of the Choir, and Body of the Church, to the West-Door of the Abby, and so return to Westminster-Hall: But the Peers, who in the former Procession carried any of the Regalia which are now left behind in the Church, or borne by the King and Queen themselves, go not, as before, immediately before the King, but are ranked in their Places, according their Degrees or Consecrations.

Return from the Abby to the Hall.

While the King and Queen were in St. Edward's Chappel divesting and putting on the Robes and Crowns of State, the Officers of Arms called in Order, such as were to return to Westminster-Hall, (for, the Prebendaries of Westminster and the Choirs were not to go back in the Procession,) and drew them out of the Choir into the Body of the Church.

The Queen with Her Crown of State on and the Sceptre and Ivory Rod in Her Hands, being supported and attended and Her Train born as before, went from St. Edward's Chappel over the Theatre on the North-side of Her Throne, through the Choir in the same manner She came, (but the Lords who bore her Regalia thither repaired to their respective Places, in their several Classes among the Peers) and was received under Her Canopy by the Barens of the Cirque Ports without the Door of the Choir.

The King being invested with His Purple Robes, and Crown of State, having in his Right Hand the Seeprre with the Cross and the Orbin His Lest, the sour Swords borne before Him, and His Right Arm supported by the Lord Howard of Essingham; proceeded from St. Edward's Chappel over the Theatre on the South-side of His Throne, through the Choir in the same Manner He came, (but the Lords who bore bore any of the Regalia, that was left behind or carried by His Majesty? repair'd to their respective Places in their several Classes among the Peers, and was received by the Barons of the Cinque Ports under His Canopy, without the Door of the Choir.

Thus they proceeded through the great West Door in their Return to Westminster Hall; the Dukes of Aguitain and Normandy wearing their Hats of Estate, the Peers and Peeresses their Coronets, the Bishops, Knights of the Garter and Bath, and the Judges their Caps, and the Kings of Arms their Crowns, after the following Manner.
